LONG POINT STRING BAND

A decorative graphic featuring a stylized bridge and the neck of a stringed instrument, possibly a dulcimer or fiddle, with the words 'STRING BAND' written across it in a serif font.

Long Point String Band is an Old-Time Acoustic "Neo-Traditional" outfit from southern West Virginia. They blend the authenticity of Old-Time Mountain Music with the flare of bluegrass.

LPSB will give a performance at LPCA on April 4 and discuss traditional Appalachian string instruments and techniques: "We will begin with the roles of the fiddle and banjo traditionally in the music. Then, we will move on to demonstrate the mountain dulcimer and Hunter Walker's special techniques for playing. We will discuss important pioneers of old time and bluegrass music, then end the session with a Q&A."

FRIDAY, APRIL 4 @ 10:30 AM
